

a). Depending on the location of resources, if people live in isolated areas this can effect wheather they become unemploy<sup>ed</sup>ment and access to resources. But if the resources are in reach this may be critical to the help they need. Either getting their feet back on the ground and finding ~~the~~ the right job or recieving the basics to survive and have a roof over their head.

b). ~~The~~ Every age group requires health needs but in different areas. For the aged health benefits are significant in some of their daily lives. eg. if ~~unable~~ living at home and require daily visits. ~~for~~ The aged are frailer and less mobile than the majority of the

The aged

Health is a very important aspect within the lives of the aged, as their bodies and minds are rapidly ~~facing~~ growing old, and for many their health may be deteriorating, both physically and mentally. It is important that they are able to access medical facilities so that their health requirements are being met. As many Aged people would be in need of different types of medicines.

Financial support is another very important aspect in the lives of the aged, many receive government benefits to allow them <sup>to receive</sup> ~~the~~ necessary financial assistance. In which they need for their basic needs, through shelter, food and clothing. With the extra expenses of medical fees which may be due to the amount of doctor or hospital times in which they visit.

It is also important that they do not lose their sense of identity, and that they still feel that they are independent. As many elderly people grow old they become dependent upon others and often lose their sense of self worth. It is important for their self esteem that they feel important and remain with a sense of identity.

(C) Homelessness is a very common issue within the world, ~~it is~~ whereby a person/s lacks the basic needs of life, and as a result do not have a permanent living shelter. They are faced with the problems ~~of~~ financially, and may result in poor health as they are socio-economically disadvantaged and are unable to buy nutritious food. However there are many support services which are available for the homeless.

Such charities as St Vincent De Paul, Salvation Army, Lifeline are available for these people to seek help from, they are able to supply individuals and families with clothing, shelter, and ~~can give out~~ food tokens for the grocery store.

Other such services as soup stations, are available out on the street, whereby the homeless are able to get free food.

As there are so many homeless people ~~es~~ and there is not enough facilities to facilitate their numbers. Many shelters will only allow people to stay within their shelters for a limited time, which is often anywhere up to 3 months.

Therefore these people then have to go back onto the street.

But through networks such as charities, soup stations, and shelters. These are helping the homeless to have a better life than they would usually have. It is these places which are supported by the government to do what they do. These strategies are working towards a better way of life for the homeless, and it is in hope that in the future these social problems will be eliminated.
