

- ⑨ Patterns of pay for men and women differ because there's paid and unpaid. The difference between paid and unpaid is that paid is when you have a job which can be full-time, part-time or casual and people get paid weekly and get paid through your bank account. Unpaid work is when you do a favour for someone and don't get paid for it, example community work is when someone does something against the law and instead of going to jail they clean up schools, streets, council places, that's another unpaid work because that's showing that you're paying for what you have done wrong.

for individuals its good to work because you get out of the house make money and make and meet new people at work or outside of work. It helps a individual to feel more independent about them self because they are supporting themselves and feeling good about themselves.

Families work is important because to support a family you have to have a job and work.

Being a family and working makes everything very possible because you have money to spend on your family and to get shelter and to support them.

© In the work place you can't be picky and discriminate because the shop, workplace is for everyone that wants come in. It's hard if you discriminate and you have someone that you don't like at work, ~~that~~ <sup>than</sup> there would always be trouble, that's why every work place should be anti-discrimination.

if your store is anti-discrimination it helps all the workers to get together and help each other out in the workplace.

Each worker should be very Supportive of each other.

The workplace should be anti-discrimination because it makes everyone become good friends no judges on each other, because the work place is a place to go do your job and get paid, not to make trouble and have a bad time and come home, work is to support yourself and get ready to be independent.

The work place helps everyone feel better to be working and making money because money is needed to have a house, car, etc.
