

Question 20-Individuals and work.

① Workplace regulations and entitlements support individuals in managing family responsibilities.

At work we have a job to do in a certain way. Like any workplace there are rules and regulations. When people go to work they are given ~~are~~ a job and it is to be done within a certain time and a certain way. So at home family responsibilities are basically the same at work.

They are to be shared and done at a certain time. The workplace is a great way to learn about ~~+~~ how to manage family responsibilities.

Sometimes people take their work life home ~~at~~ with them and that could be a problem. Managing family responsibilities is <sup>also</sup> a great way to get a job because if you know what to do at home then it's basically the same in the work place.

- ⑬ The impact that social change has had on current trends in patterns of work is quite big. These days ~~at~~ more and more people are making their workplace a social place. They are still doing all the work but are socialising more. The technological change has made a big impact because these days technology is everywhere. In most work places computers and the internet are of great importance. It's good though because the world's changing and it's better.
