

The role of world cities and the operations of these cities within the global network is very important.

As many of the world's cities including Tokyo, New York, Paris and Singapore which were headquarters of transnational corporations are located and is where much of the global economic activities begin and link with other cities around the world.

The role of many of these world cities ~~which~~ that can also be identified as mega cities, ~~are~~ ~~the~~ is the commercial and industrial development around the world.

These cities also maintain a structure with the global distribution of many networks including the international communications network of Citicorp bank. Some of the distribution of the network includes places like Singapore to Sydney, New Zealand, Perth, London and place in India.

• Another role that mega cities of the World trade is the organisation of trade links between themselves and other countries. These trades may include oil, wheat and other goods.

Other operations that are run out of world cities on a larger scale include ~~industries~~ ~~the~~ industries in cars manufacturing etc and other ~~the~~ developments.

World cities also deal with changes in technology and the economic factors.