
Question 22 (14 marks)

- (a) What makes New York City a world city?

3

In your answer, refer to Sources H, I, J and K from the Stimulus Booklet.

The things that make New York City a world city is Wall Street which is a financial hub that is known world wide, the amazing tourist attractions such as the Empire State Building and Times Square is another reason. It's a world city due to its financial dominance over other countries.

- (b) How might the culture of place in a large city be influenced by large numbers of tourists?

5

The culture of a large place could be influenced by tourists in different ways. A large group of tourists could bring a new culture to a place that the locals like and they want that particular culture in their area or they could change their original culture if they don't like what the tourists bring. A group of tourists could open a food market or store from their own country with their food and change the culture. Tourists influence in many ways, a local could open a food market and import food which changes the culture.

Question 22 continues on page 12

Question 22 (continued)

- (c) How do population growth and associated urban sprawl affect the provision of both social services and infrastructure? Refer to a large city you have studied.

6

Population growth and urban sprawl affect both social services and infrastructure in many ways. People relocate in a larger city for more jobs, better jobs, more housing and a better education for their children.

New York is an example as not only businessmen but unemployed people look to relocate there more job opportunities and better educations, however it can be expensive to live in New York if you are a person that is unemployed that's why they need a job very quickly.

The more people that relocate to New York the more crowded it gets, the less ~~bed~~ buildings there are available and the less jobs although there are many available jobs in New York.

The more people moving to New York the less room there is to build apartments and things like that. Usually when a person moves to New York and sees how good it is he brings over more and more people to work and build more places.

End of Question 22