

Start here.

The factors that place the Sand dunes at Risk at Kingscliff beach are:

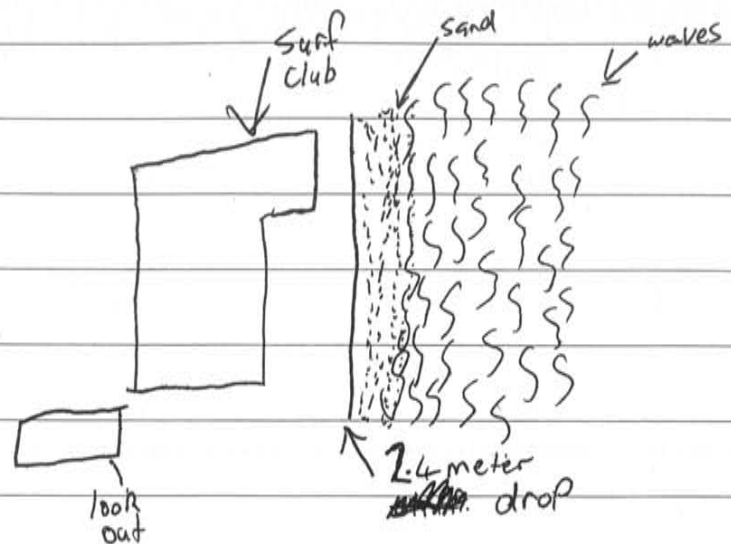

- high beach erosions
- big swells
- large amounts of wind

These 3 things are causing Kingscliff beach to slowly erode. But these effects are natural.

This was the beach 2 years ago:

This is the beach now:

This is now what Kingscliff beach looks like there is hardly any sand left and a big 2.4 meter drop right near the Surf Club. There is fencing all around to protect and more of the erosion.

The ~~en~~ National Park at Cúc Phương National Park is being placed at risk by human interference such as forest devastation and poaching.

Additional writing space on back page.