

Question 21 (continued)

- (c) Assess the impact that the health status of Australians has on the provision of health care facilities and services. 10

The health status of Australian citizens is an important issue when talking about provisions of facilities and services.

The amount of health care facilities and services is determined by our health status, if everyone was perfectly healthy there would be a far decreased amount of these provisions compared to if the population was getting increasingly sick these would increase.

Health care facilities and services are located in terms of community groups, specialist doctors and hospitals are located usually in upper class areas, areas where people can afford them where as people with blue collar jobs and high unemployment areas are treated at basic hospitals.

The provision of these facilities and services I feel is biased because they are providing inequalities throughout the two economical classes.

The impact that takes place is one that has the basic lowerclass hospitals in need of specialists and cutting edge technology where as the inner class hospitals with the capabilities for

Question 21 continues on page 12

Question 21 (continued)

groundbreaking technology and specialist doctors is being under used.

End of Question 21