Question 21 (continued)

5

- (b) Describe the roles that individuals, communities and governments have in addressing health inequities experienced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Governments play a key role in increasing education for ATSI peoples which will in turn lead to a higher income. Communities inform of problems faced by ATSI people and are able to help create jobs and opportunities. Individuals are able help communities create programs to help ATSI people with housing and general care.
