Question 8

In every artwork, ~~there~~ there has a meaning to it, they also have signs and symbols, they may be small ~~to~~ but still they represent something. Signs and symbols are a way of communicating art. Art has all different signs and symbols, you just have pick them up. It's like a system where signs represent this and symbols represent that. Artists use signs and symbols as a way of expressing themselves ^{also} not having to create everything in detail, signs and symbols is a great way of communicating. There are limitations where you don't get to see everything in detail and you can't feel ^{and} see a lot for the art. Art communicates with signs and symbols on a basis where in an artwork, each sign means something and it's like a puzzle at first but once you work it out, you get to see how art has different forms of meaning by using signs and symbols. They ~~use~~^{give} art another meaning.
