

Q1

(b) But if you support this, and you profess your work for this matter, if you are sitting for this reason, that the children of the proscribed, whose properties have been sold, ~~but~~ are led to you, beware, judges, by the immortal gods, that a new and much more cruel proscription does not seem to have been introduced by youth. That former proscription, which was made for those who were able to carry arms, however the senate did not wish to ~~approve~~ sustain it, ~~does not seem more cruel than~~ ~~does~~ a more cruel proscription than the one handed down in the custom of our ancestors does not seem to have been done by the public council. But this proscription, which ~~is~~ applies to the children of the proscribed, and to the cradles of infant babies, unless you reject from you in this court, and spurn, by the immortal gods, realise into what situation ~~the~~ you think the state will come.
