

(b) Do not ~~let~~, gentlemen of the jury, if you ~~see~~ have seen no tears of Milo, if you always see a firm expression, a ~~stead~~ steady voice and ~~a~~ strong speech, hereupon spare him less: I know that he is not at all : for indeed if he is timid in a gladiatorial fight, we are accustomed to hate punishment and bloodshed (obsecratio?) and even to allow him to live; and if he is ^{himself} strong and spirited, and offering himself to death more readily, we wish to save him. ~~How~~ how much we owe to this bravest citizen?