

c) This extract is composed almost entirely of rhetorical questions, which Cicero uses as a tool to manipulate the opinions of the senators. Through alternation of questions and statements, Cicero moulds the audience's pattern of thoughts and paints a grim picture of the state of the Republic as long as Catiline remains.