

a) All the hope of the Greeks and began faithfully by war. Impious from whom always stood ^{as} ~~to~~ help for Pallas Tydides but for the crime and the founder Ulysses having ^{fatally} ~~to~~ gone to the sacred temple at the highest point the guards of the citadel the guards killed Pallas, had ~~even~~ ripped apart the sacred effigy to the ~~soldiers~~ band of soldiers and had dared to touch the ~~sacred~~ ~~divine~~ virgins' divine hands.
b) The horror is everywhere by my mind, at the same time they ~~to~~ were terrified by ~~that~~ the science itself. Then the house, if by chance the fact, if by chance it were to have been brought, I carry back myself: The Greeks had rushed in and they were holding all the rooves, the fires ^{devouring/eating} eating to the highest, overpowered by flames, _{port} turning by the wind rages the summer to the breezes. I proceed and I look back at the seat and the citadel of Priam and now^{to} the empty porticos by shelter of Juno the guards having been down Phoenix and dire Ulysses had served at the battle here on all sides the treasure of Troy burns the shields having been ~~to~~ ripped out and the tables of the gods and bowls made of solid gold, ~~p~~ captive and the clothes being worn by the captured. Boys and mothers stand around in a long row by four.
