

Start here.

~~The father groans heavily with love as he sees Lausus and tears roll down the face.
I will not be silent of this death or your worthy ~~deeds~~ deeds, young man worthy of memory,~~

Lausus groans heavily with love as he sees the father and tears roll down the face.
Of this death and your excellent deeds I shall not be silent, young man worthy of memory

The companions follow with a great shout, while the father escapes protected by the small shield of the son, ~~they~~ and they ~~too~~ throw weapons and deflect missiles sent by the enemy. Aeneas' rage and fury holds him.

You may ask for an extra Writing Booklet if you need more space.